B Conflict of Classes. There is no doubt about it that New York is divided into two great classes, the very rich and the very poor, and the middle class of reputable, industrious, fair-to-do people are gradually disappear-ing, going up in the scale of wordly wealth or down into poverty and embarrassment. It seems unquestioned that between these classes exists, and is rapidly growing, under intentional fostering and nurturing of evil men, a distinct, pronounced, malignant hatred. The sneers at Mr. Vanderbilt in the public press meet the approbation of hundreds of thousands of people. Why? He is not a bad man, although he never does any good. To men who are sensitive as to what other people should do with their money he appears hoggish, but while as the representative of corporate selfish-Mr. Vanderbilt stands supreme, per se, he is an easy-going, well enough kind of a person, not good looking, not educated, in no sense refined, but, on the other hand, not evilly disposed. But I should be very sorry to be in Mr. Vanderbilt's boots if such times as we had here in 1863 should be repeated, and Mr. Vanderbilt is a type of thousands—I use the term advisedly—who are rich beyond their ancestors' dreams of avarice. There are men here worth $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 of whom you know nothing. I know one lady, living in a magnificent house, whose life is as quiet as that of a minister's should be, who has given away not less than $3,000,000 in five years, whose benefactions prior to her death will reach not less than $7,000,statuary, diamonds, precious stones, exquisite specimens of gold and silver, with costly works of every imaginable art, an inside estimate of which is $1,500,000, and she is not as rich as many of her neighbors by several million dollars. There are men here who twenty years ago sold clothes on Chatham street who to day live at an annual expense of $100,000, who wear jewels upon their person costing in reasonable stores $25,-

Come with me in a Madison avenue car any day, rain or shine, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the morning and 5 or 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and I will find you car after car coatly packed with ladies in whose ears are diamonds worth from $500 to $5,000 each, on whose ungloved hands, red and fluffy, sparkle fortunes. Walk with me from Stewart's old store, at the corner of Ninth street and Broadwe to Thirteenth street and Broadway any usy. I do not mean Sundays, holidays or special occasions, but all times, and I will show you on block after block women in scalakin circulars down to their heels, worth from $500 to $2,000 each, with diamond earrings and with diamond finger-rings, and other precious stones as well, carrying in hands dainty pocket-books stuffed with money. They represent the new rich with which New York is filling up. On that same street, at the same time. I can show you men to whom a dollar would be a fortune, whose trousers, torn and disgraceful in their tatters, are held about their pinched waists by rope or twine or pins, whose stockless feet shuffls along the pavement in shoes so ragged that they dare not lift them from the pavement, whose faces are freckled, whose beard is long and straggling as their hair, while their reddening hands taper at the nails like claws. How long before those claws will fasten on the newly rich? Make no mistake about it, the feeling is born, the feeling is growing, and the feeling, sooner or later, will break fourth. Fourteenth street, on which there are but few residences left, and in front of one, leading from the door to the these streets. the curbstone, was a canopy, under which charmingly-attired ladies, accompanied by their escorts, went from their carriago to the open door, through which floods of light and sounds of music came. I stood with the crowd—a big crowd—a moment, and there was born this idea of an inevitable outbreak, unless something is done, and speedily done, to do away with the prejudice which not only exists, but is intentionally fostered against the very ch by the very poor. It would mal you shudder to hear the way the women spoke. Envy, jealously, magligant ferocity, every element needed was there. All that is wanted is a leader. - Joe Howard in the Philadelphia Press.

Our Drinks.

The Popular Science News has an article on the above subject, of which we give the chief points.

Water is essential to all forms of life.

No other fluid can be found in a healthy human organization. It is the only drink which can be used without doing violence, in some degree, to man's best physical welfare.

Tea and coffee, in moderate quantities, do not, in any marked degree, influence vital activity unfavorably. The feeble and pervous, however, cannot use either of these beverages without serious discomfort or injury.

"As to alcohol, it would be better for the world if the art of producing it should suddenly be lost, and the process be forever lost. We do not need it in any of its forms; neither the physician, chemist, nor artisan absolutely needs it in any department of his calling; and this statement we make advisedly, after fall deliberation, taking into view our present knowledge of medicine in the arts."

arts."

It is probable that very many rigid observers of hygienic laws do not use water freely enough. It is possible that we may, by habit, so modify the sensation of thirst, that it, in a large degree, ceases to be a safe guide of our need. We have seen many instances of illness which were cured by resorting to the freer use of water. It supplies to the system the needed amount of liquid to freer use of water. It supplies to the system the needed amount of liquid to maintain liquor process, and assist in reparing tissue waste. It is constantly passing out of the system through the lungs, skin and kidneys, and if the supply is inadequate to the demand, morbid conditions ensue. Constipation often results from such deficiency, and a remedy in many cases would be the drinking of one-half plat of tepid water before breakfast. Much ice water taken at meal time is injurious. It arrests grount time is injurious. It arrests prompt digestion, the latter requiring increased heat. Ided water should at all times be

Both Bills Were Paid.

A gloomy story is told of the well-known engineer, William A. Sweet, of Syracuse. Casually meeting a prominent lawyer one day, a brief conversation ensued, in the course of which Mr. Sweet happened to ask "the judge" what he though of some question they were discussing, without really meaning to ask legal advice in the usual way. Soon afterward Mr. Sweet received a bill from the judge "for legal advice, $1,000," which he paid promptly without a word of complaint.

which he paid promptly without a word of complaint.

Time passed on, and one day the judge who was also heavily interested in salt manufacture, weeded some mechinery which was not running satisfactoril, and esked Mr. Sweet to look at the machines and tell what was needed. Mr. Sweet looked them over for two or three hours, and indicated the cause of the trontle. When he went home he promptly made out a bill against the judge, for "mechanical advice, $1,500," and the till was duly paid, furnishing probably one of the few instances on record in which mechanics are got ahead of the lay.—American Machinest.

A RAILROAD HORROR.

ferrible Disaster Near Toronto, Canada TORONTO, ONT. January 2.—This morning on the Grand Trunk Railway a uburban train left Union Station at 6:40 o'clock. One of the cars attached as filled with employees of the bolt works, who live in the city and who are conveyed to their daily labor by this means, the train stopping for them opposite the works. After turning the curve at Parkdale boundary a freight train was observed coming city ward, but the impetus of both trains was too great to alow the brakes to do their duty in time, and the result was a shocking tragedy. Nineteen of the men employed at the bolt works are now reported killed, and twenty or thirty wounded. The conductor of the freight train, Geo. Barber, is said to be responsible for the horrible affair, as he was running his train without orders. He has been arrested.

The latest accounts place the number of dead at twenty seven. Several of the injured are so badly maimed that they are not expected to recover. A jury has been empanelled and has viewed the bodies. The affair casts a gloom over the city. An eye-witness describes the scene at the wreck as heartrending.

The train carrying workmen has the The train carrying workmen has the right of way. Upon rounding the sharp curve just before reaching the Bolt works the engineer saw the freight train thundering down grade towards him. He reversed his engine, whistled a warning, and along with the fireman jumped for his life. The conductor heard the warning, and crying out, "Jump, boys, for your lives," sprang into the snow. In a second more there was a terrific crash. The engine of the freight train knocked the boiler of the dummy clear through the first car, crushing the unfortunate passengers in every direction and pinning many of them to the floor. The impetus was so great that the engine mounted the truck of the dummy, which cept to the rails and remained on a balance. The engineer of the freight train, when he saw that a collision was inevita ole, sprang from his engine, but the fireman was instantly killed.

To add to the horror of the scene the boiler of the dummy exploded and the escaping steam and boiling water scalded and carried death or terrible injuries to the mangled and bleeding men. Then a fire broke out and completed the work of lestruction.

A relief party of thirty or forty men was soon at the scene and at once set to work to relieve the sufferers, and at bout 10 o'clock a car-load of dead and injured was on the way to the city. Upn arriving at the Union Station an ambulance wagon and several cabs and busses were in waiting.

Barber, the conductor of the freight train, was immediately placed under arrest. He at once admitted that he got orders at Hamilton to run to Queen's wharf at Toronto, avoiding all regular trains. He looked at the time table, but orgot that the suburban train was on the list of regular trains and hence the Public sympathy was thoroughly sroused for the unfortunate widows and children, and already subscription lists have been started and offers of entertainments made to provide funds for their aid. The families of several of the men killed are in poor circumstances.

Fifteen dead bodies were taken from the wreck. Seven died after reaching the hospital. Three more will probably not live through the night. Twelve wounded are in the hospital and four wounded men have been taken to their homes. About sixty persons were on the

A Stage Robber's Dilemma.

Black Bart tells of one experience he ad in Northern California which came near stopping his career as a highway-man. He had interviewed a party of travellers by stage and got a small haul for his trouble. After starting the stage on, with the gentle admonition to the driver to go on and never look back or he would drop him, he, as was his custom, pitched into the brush. He had horsemen and footmen coming in his direction at a lively gait. They were gaining on him very fast, and he was compelled to do somthing very suddenly or be captured, and his only chance for escape was to secrete himself before they caught sight of him.

He began looking about him and noticed a large, hollow fir log which lay on the ground. Plunging into it head first just before the vigilants came into sight, he crawled to the frather end of the hole, but he discovered to his horror that he had company which, by the peculiar odor emitted, he concluded was a pole-cat—in

When all was ready the joungster was placed on the bed and operations began. As the hot poultice touched the boy's foot, he opened his mouth to say something, but his mother, with the stick, awed him into silence. Again the boy strove to make himself heard, and again the upraised stick warned him to keep quiet. In a few short minutes the poultice was firmly in place and the boy was tucked up in bed there to remain until the medicine had done its work. Put down bedroom carpets late in the day, when it is too dark to see where you drop your tacks. When your husband gets up at night and goes searching

It was a time for tears, but not for retreat, and he lay there in mortal agony and heard his pursuers come up and sit down on the leg, while their dog tried to make the acquaintance of the fragrant occupant of the bole in the log. The smell finally drove them away and Bart crawled hurriedly out, not only sick at the atomach. He declares that he did not get over the effects of his experience in the log for three months afterward, and that it nearly cured him of his propensity for robbing stages.—Stockton (Cal.) Corn vs. Oats for Horses.

The comparative value of corn and oats as food for horses may be stated as follows: Corn is deficient in many elements of nutrition so necessarily for recuperating the constant wear and tear which necessarily takes place in the body of a living animal. On this account, horses which are exclusively fed on corn and hav do not receive that kind of nourishment which appears necessary for the due support and maintainance of the animal fabric; hence we must not be surprised that corn fed horses show eviden-ces of being languid, by sweating profusey while being worked, lack of etc. Oats, on the contrary, contain more of the essential elements of nutrition than any other article of food which can be fed with impunity to horses. They are decidedly nutritious. They are the feeding them, and experience has proved that horses properly fed on oats and timo thy hay, with regular exercise, good grooming and proper sanitary regula-tions, can be brought to the highest state of physical culture, and can perform more work with less evidence of fatigue than when fed on any other article of food .--American Farmer.

What a Railroad Commission Should

It is folly for a Legislature to give to any set of men the power to prescribe rates for freight and fares for passengers on railroads. It may properly enough fix maximum limits therefor, pass laws to prevent discriminations and give Rail-road Commissioners power to institute proper proceedings for their enforcement. This is all the power possessed by the Massachusetts Commission, which is the most perfect yet devised by any State. That Commission recommends railroads to do certain things and such recommendation is always sufficient for the correc-tion of abuses. If not heeded, the Legislature, on the complaint of the Com-missioners, would be prompt to apply a remedy. But that is never necessary.—

No Whiskey!

Brown's Iron Bitters is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

Brown's Iron Bitters is guaranteed to be a nonintoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. Rick, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881. Gents: - The foolish wast-ing of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hun-dreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

Brown's Iron BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

BUCKINGHAM WHISKEY A REALLY PURE STIMULANT.

THIS WHISKEY is controlled entirely by VENABLE & HEYMAN, New York. It is distilled in Maryland in the slate water regions of that State from the small grain grown there. The distillation is superintended by a gentleman who thoroughly understands his business. Nothing deleterious is permitted to enter into its composition, and nene of it is sllowed to be sold until fully three years old, in order that it may be entirely free by in order that it may be entirely free by evaporation from fusel oil. Venable & Heyman offer these goods as perfectly pure, to till a long felt want for medical purposes. It is their own brand, and they stake their reputation on the truth of this assertion.
